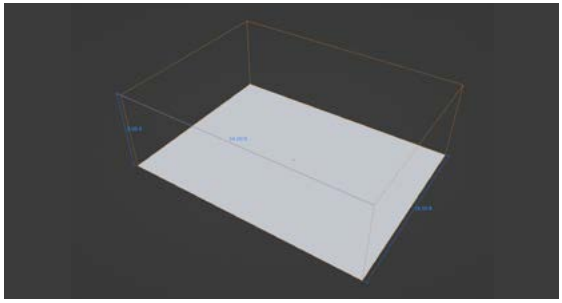
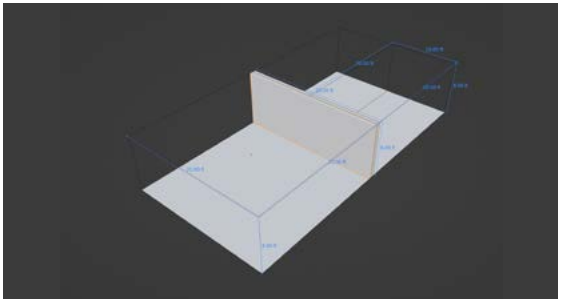
EXHIBITOR BOOTH DIAGRAM LAYOUT GUIDELINES



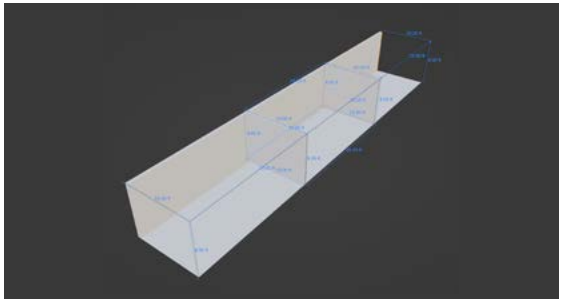
ISLAND BOOTH

An Island booth is a standalone space with no adjoining neighbouring booths. All sides are open to the aisles. Exhibitors wishing to include walls or partitions must supply them themselves, and walls may not exceed 12 feet. Any request to exceed 12 feet requires written approval from the Show Director or Management.



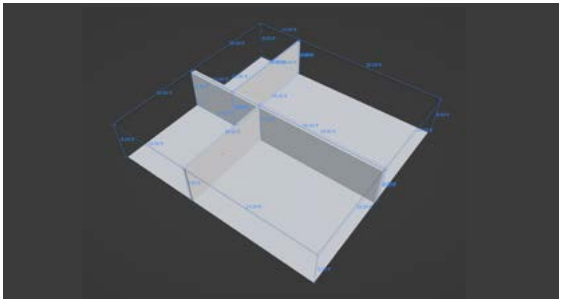
BACK-TO-BACK BOOTH

A Back-to-Back booth shares its back wall with another booth and is open on the front and both sides. Exhibitors must provide their own walls. Walls must be 8 feet and fully finished. Any request to exceed 8 feet requires written approval from the Show Director or Management and must be coordinated with neighbouring booths.



LINEAR BOOTH

A Linear booth is part of a row of booths. Booths in the middle are open at the front only, while end booths are open at the front and one side. Exhibitors must provide their own walls. Walls must be 8 feet and fully finished on all sides. Any request to exceed 8 feet requires written approval from the Show Director or Management and must be coordinated with neighbouring booths.



CORNER BOOTH

A Corner booth is positioned where four booths form a square, with the front and one side open to the aisle. Exhibitors must provide their own walls. Walls must be 8 feet and fully finished on all sides. Any request to exceed 8 feet requires written approval from the Show Director or Management and must be coordinated with neighbouring booths.

• Exhibitors must coordinate with neighbouring booths to ensure side and back walls don't interfere with each other's designs.
• If your booth is connected to another booth, all connected exhibitors must keep a standard height of 8 ft, including side walls that must extend to the aisles. Any request to extend your booth in any direction must be approved in advance by the Show Director.
• If your booth is an island booth (no neighbouring booths), you may build up to 12 ft high.
• No booth may exceed 12 ft in height unless you receive written approval from LLDS and the Show Director.
• Due to fire regulations, ceilings, including mesh and fabric coverings, are not permitted without the expressed written consent of TCC Management. If you wish to incorporate such components into your booth design, please notify Show Management so that your booth design can be submitted for review by the TCC Infrastructure Department.
• Exhibitors must not block fire equipment (fire extinguishers, sprinkler systems, emergency signs & exits, etc.) as well as windows and doors. If this causes concerns with your booth design, please reach out to Show Management to seek resolution.

BOOTH REGULATIONS

• Exhibitor booths must be designed and built strictly within your allotted booth dimensions. All measurements must account for every element of your setup, including furniture, flooring, cords, signage, and any other display items.

• All exhibitors must submit their booth designs to Show Director Amber Walker at llds@amberwalkerevents.ca by January 30th, 2026 for approval.

• Your submitted design will also be automatically entered for consideration for the Outstanding Booth Design Award at the Living Luxe Awards Gala on April 18th, 2026.
